Summary

| Anisa Jamalenda - 06/03/2026

PERSONALITY ANALYSIS

Personal style

| Personal style: Doer

It is often thought that creativity and structure stand in the way of each other; Anisa Jamalenda is the perfect counter-example. Her curiosity is piqued by novelty and she favors stimulating, fast-paced work, but this does not stop her from producing high-quality work. She is careful not to become complacent, and focuses on seeing her projects through to completion. She goes about her work independently, focusing more on her mission than on the relational aspects of her work.

| Main strengths

Relationship management

- She is confident in her decisions and sticks to her course of action.
- She makes decisions with complete independence, advancing her work on her own.
- She is humble and does not impose her authority.

Work management

- She can manage several projects at the same time.
- She relies on her points of reference and prefers continuity to change.
- She is tenacious and not easily discouraged.

Emotional management

- She shows discernment and makes judgments based on facts.
- She is responsive, very energetic and has a sense of urgency.

MOTIVATIONS ANALYSIS

Her working style

| What motivates her the most

- Working in a reassuring environment
- Creating new things
- Analysing data

| What motivates her the least

- Having an attractive salary
- Having autonomy
- Being recognised by others

| How she manages her energy

Anisa Jamalenda divides her energy equally between dynamism and stability. Some of her main drivers push her towards taking action and seeking stimulation. However, she also needs a certain stability and sound bearings in order to feel comfortable in a professional environment. It is important that she finds this balance in order to fully invest herself in her role.

| The activities she prefers

Analyse

Analysis is a key source of personal satisfaction for Anisa Jamalenda. She enjoys being able to approach situations in an objective and rational manner. She is particularly invested in ensuring important decisions be made in this way, rather than based on intuition or to satisfy others' expectations.

Design

Design is one of the activities that highly interests Anisa Jamalenda. She very much enjoys being able to contribute her ideas and imagine things that don't yet exist. She is reluctant, however, to devote time to design in vague contexts or without a clear framework.

Coordinate

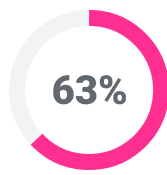

Anisa Jamalenda is particularly motivated and invested when coordinating projects. She especially enjoys being able to work in a team to achieve concrete objectives.

MOTIVATIONS ANALYSIS

Her management style

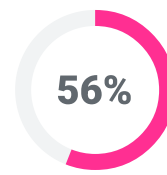

| What this means

Anisa Jamalenda is a manager who challenges others while providing clear directives. She is driven by results and sets high standards. She's interested in results above all else, even when she knows the path to achieving them is difficult and demanding. She strives to inspire that same spirit in her team.

Directive

Do what I tell you

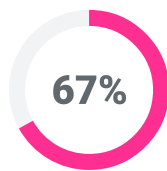

Winner

Watch and do as I do

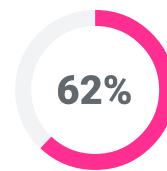

| The management style she seeks

Anisa Jamalenda expects a manager to take the lead and provide clear direction. She needs to know exactly what is expected of her, without any ambiguity. She believes a leader must clearly communicate a vision and set the example for the team. She is motivated by someone who values principles and reliability.

MOTIVATIONS ANALYSIS

The culture in which she thrives

| The ideal culture for her

Anisa Jamalenda has the capacity to thrive in a wide range of cultures. There is no standard approach or environment that suits her better than others. She finds advantages and drawbacks in every type of work environment. Her level of commitment will therefore not be determined by the culture of the company, but rather by whether her role has the potential to make her feel fulfilled. If her main motivational factors are satisfied by the role, she will be capable of adapting and thriving in any environment.

APTITUDE ASSESSMENT

Her way of thinking

| Decision-making: Reasoned

Tendency to dedicate time to ensuring decisions are right.

| Preferred tasks: Advanced

Capacity to comprehend new and strategic subjects.

| Learning style: Innovative

Ability to easily assimilate new concepts through analysis.

| How she learns new skills and concepts

Brilliant from an intellectual point of view, Anisa Jamalenda tends to easily assimilate foreign concepts. She is able to understand new or complex subjects without needing to put them into practice. This means she can develop her skills by researching and reading on diverse subjects. She needs to be intellectually stimulated by her work, and might get easily bored otherwise.

Anisa Jamalenda's spontaneous nature leads her to learn by testing out concepts and techniques herself. She finds that the best way to acquire new knowledge is to first try, develop her understanding through failure, and then try again. She can sometimes lack patience. To assimilate new ideas or new knowledge, she first needs to experiment by herself.
